

Meeting with Raymond

1) Email the Professor ahead of time and ask him so that I can sit in and ~~that~~ he might be open to it.

2) Email Raymond my Pre-Schedule for the week on Sunday

"The proceeding week was a bad week. Went to an MIT Lab (housed by graduate students) to ask some questions. If they cannot answer the questions then how am I an undergraduate is expected to answer these questions"

Google Problem

Google BANNED (well officially the term is blocked) me from accessing /jair2018 maybe due to me putting links of .mlcy .mp4 files on their platform.

Lessons learnt from ECON 1010 Quiz 1

There are 15 MCQ (Ari-Cohen) but these MCQs also contain short (very short) questions that are NOT MCQs. They are usually directly taken from the flex Text but he also adds some flare to the questions. Hopefully he will not add too much to the mid-terms & the finals

FACTS (90+100%)
People usually get 80% on the quizzes and get a W grade
Average of C on the final grade.

Ari-Cohen does ~~not~~ have real-long time. Well for the time I see him, he only allows 3 Questions during his office hours

The Economics Joke

Week before Period
Reading week
marks, grades
and content retention
before reading week
Marks grads and what not after reading week. This is an economic problem.

This is a classical joke that I find funny as econ professors who DO NOT have office hour had purposely used their statistics to not have more work, just wanna teach & not bell curve. (LOL)
